

Looking for the Unusual: In Norway with Kids

“Hold on to your hats! Bergen and its surrounding areas are overflowing with fun activities and attractions for children. Aside from all the traditional outdoor sporty things to do such as swimming, hiking, fishing, skiing, sledding, ice skating, roller skating, etc., you can do some really cool things like climb a 15-meter high, 470-square-meter-wide indoor climbing wall or slide down a very wet 1,000-meter slide at Vannkanten World water park. You can greet happy seals and waddling penguins at the Bergen Aquarium or take a 7-minute ride on the 84-year-old Floibanen Funicular. Hold on tight as it rides up to the top of 1,050-foot-high Mount Floyen...

Date: 2007-04-23

Article link:

<http://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-looking-for-the-unusual-in-norway-with-kids-article-156>