

Organizing Your Own Volunteer Trip

Organizing our own volunteer trip isn't difficult, but it does take time. You'll need to do a fair amount of researching and contacting people, to figure out what all is out there. You will likely be volunteering in some part of the developing world, where, unfortunately, things are much less organized than many of us are accustomed to. Finding a volunteer abroad position will not be as easy as just looking up some websites and deciding on a project that interests you. 90% of these organizations just don't have the man-power, experience, and/or resources to maintain an informative, up-to-date website...

Date: 2007-10-29

Article link:

<https://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-organizing-your-own-volunteer-trip-article3>

31