

Thermal Spas and Skiing in Europe

After a hard day of having fun on the slopes, what could be better than a nice long soak in steaming thermal water before joining friends for a drink? Sounds like the perfect added ski holiday extra! Luckily in the Alps you are never far from a natural thermal spring where heated water seeps up from fault lines deep in the mountain ready to soothe aching and weary limbs. Many of these springs have now been channeled into excellent spa facilities, offering a range of complementary treatments (massages, facials, saunas etc.)...

Date: 2007-11-26

Article link:

<https://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-thermal-spas-and-skiing-in-europe-article3>

52