

Sightseeing Guided by GPS

So, you're in San Francisco, and you want to do a little sightseeing. But the thought of wrestling with maps, getting herded about with dozens of tourists, or asking random passers-by for directions just isn't appealing. Luckily for tourists to the City by the Bay, there's GoCar Rentals, home of the "first ever storytelling car." The GoCar looks like a tiny yellow two-seater car, but is actually a three wheeled moped. Two people can hop in, and are required to wear helmets.

Date: 2007-12-17

Article link:

<http://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-sightseeing-guided-by-gps-article386>