

Medical Tourism Overloading Dental System

Faced with weeks-long waits for private practice dental appointments—and pricey bills once services are rendered—tens of thousands of British nationals are flying to the Czech Republic for quicker and cheaper dental treatment. But experts warn that this places a potentially disastrous stress on an already overburdened Czech health care system, and may lead to excessive wait times for local patients as well...

Date: 2008-01-28

Article link:

<http://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-medical-tourism-overloading-dental-system-article410>