

Vienna: The Viewpoint of the Press

One doesn't need to give it much thought: as a tourist or a spectator, one could clearly see that the real champions of the Euro 2008 were the hosts Austria and Switzerland. In spite of the victory cup flying over to Spanish territory, everyone from Michael Platini, the UEFA president, to the last volunteer should be extremely proud of having organized an event of such magnitude. The result was an incredible success from both the sport and the tourist point of view...

Date: 2008-08-25

Article link:

<http://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-vienna-the-viewpoint-of-the-press-article599>