

Whale Watchers Are Whale Protectors in the Pacific Northwest

The Pacific Northwest is home to some amazing wildlife, including the beautiful black and white killer whales, also known as orcas that ply the waters around the San Juan and Gulf Islands of Washington State and the province of British Columbia. Visitors to this area during the summer months have an unparalleled opportunity to view wild orcas in their natural habitat...

Date: 2008-08-25

Article link:

<http://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-whale-watchers-are-whale-protectors-in-the-pacific-northwest-article603>