

Rhino Watching in Tabin Wildlife Reserve, Malaysia

Sprawling across the northern tip of Borneo, the Malaysian state of Sabah attracts increasing numbers of visitors drawn by its rainforests, rugged mountains, pristine coral reefs, and amazing plants and wildlife. The orangutan (found only in Borneo and Sumatra), the endemic Proboscis Monkey, the Bornean Pygmy Elephant and the rare Bornean sub-species of the Sumatran Rhino are all endangered species whose survival is being helped by nature tourism...

Date: 2008-10-27

Article link:

<http://www.tourism-review.com/travel-tourism-magazine-rhino-watching-in-tabin-wildlife-reserve-malaysia-article658>