Olomouc, Czech Republic (Tourism Review), October, 1, 2010

Language specific editions of tourism news streams along with new specialized online marketing communication tools for tourism industry such as press release translation, SEO optimization, distribution, social marketing, as well as multilingual search engine marketing (Tourism Review Digital Network) are now available to customers in Central European and Russian tourism markets. After more than three years of successful development in providing news coverage as well as promoting and advertising services for tourism organizations, the portal Tourism-Review.com comes closer to a long-term vision of creating a virtual space for communication in distinct languages connecting both individuals and companies interested in tourism business.

In response to the demand of readers and customers as well as following a general change of internet landscape, Tourism Review's publishing team introduces German, Polish, Czech and Russian editions of its publications and services along the English version. While in 1996, 75% of the web information was in English, nowadays English accounts for only 25% of the web users. Moreover, approximately 98% of internet users use their native language when searching for both general and specific information online.

TR recognizes the fact that the World Wide Web has become a truly multilingual platform with a significant part of non-English users. Central and Eastern Europe (CEE) is an economic area with not only significant growth potential in terms of advertising interesting destinations, but also with regards to reaching potential tourists by tourism businesses large and small. A broad range of news (Weekly Travel News, Top 10 in Travel Industry, Latest Travel & Tourism News) is now available to the majority of the CEE region readers in their native languages. Tourist organizations can now profit from posting useful business information such as online advertising and marketing, press releases, events calendar and festival finder in any language mentioned through Tourism-Review.com in order to reach the readers of a particular country.

The language enhancement is a result of current situation in the respective tourism industries. While Germany stands out as a country with a large and mature market in terms of both inbound and outbound tourism, Russia (along with China) represents probably the most attractive source of tourism market worldwide. Similarly, the Central European countries such as Poland and Czech Republic boast fast growing tourism markets despite being highly fragmented.

By breaking down TR tourism publications and marketing services such as press releases and multilingual search engine into several foreign languages, TR aims at three substantial enhancements in the framework of tourism industry. First, the tourism markets of CEE countries will be able to connect to the global travel trade community. Second, the existing travel destinations and businesses manage to enter and develop business activities in hitherto unrecognized tourism markets. Third, the language specific versions of news and services will allow for communication among thousands of tourism businesses based in individual countries.

With Spanish and Chinese editions in preparation, Tourism-Review.com will finalize the important stage of creating global connectedness through information localization. No other tourism industry portal thinking globally while delivering locally generates such effective intercommunication among both large and small regional tourism businesses.
