

THE BEST THINGS TO DO IN MICHIGAN

Michigan is arguably one of the best states in the Midwest. Once home to the infamous Motor City, you could get a front-row seat of America's all four Great Lakes here. What's more, the state is brimming with tourist attractions and fun activities alongside the history of several music legends that spanned multiple genres and eras. So, you don't essentially have to worry about getting bored when in the state.

Michigan residents are truly blessed when it comes to things to do. Regardless of their preferences, all they have got to do is head out to feel refreshed and rejuvenated. For instance, Michigan bettors have more choices than the residents of any other state.

The same goes for tourists too. So whether you prefer getting lost in all of the natural landmarks, or exploring the man-made architectural marvels, here are the top 5 must-see attractions in Michigan you shouldn't miss adding to your itinerary.

Isle Royale National Park

If you are into backpacking and camping, this is the one place you should be. The Isle Royale National Park is a rugged terrain enveloped by Lake Superior. With stunning views and excellent adventures for outdoor lovers, daring travelers should visit the place at least once in their lifetime to bask in the fantastic experience this place has to offer.

Nonetheless, beware! You might encounter wolves while trekking through the trails or come across a moose, among other exotic wildlife that freely roams through the park.

Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore

The one way to describe the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore would be picturesque. Resting on the shores of Lake Superior, boasting incredible multi-colored rock formations, it is one of the best spots in all of Michigan to celebrate Mother Nature.

The Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore spreads across several acres of preserved nature. The cliffs surrounding it, combined with the blue-green water, offer totally spectacular scenery. The place is open 24/7, and there is no entrance fee. But, if you plan on camping, you will have to pay some fees. For example, drive-in camping will cost you $20 per night, and for backcountry camping, it is a $5 fee per person per night. You can check the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore official website for further details.

Henry Ford Museum

If you wish to explore and discover America's most innovative and most incredible inventions, then head to Henry Ford Museum. You will particularly enjoy this place if you love cars. The Museum has a special place for the Presidential Limousines exhibit, and there is another spot called the Heroes of the Sky exhibit, where you can explore everything about airplanes and things that fly.

It is guaranteed that you will have a fantastic time going back to the past and discovering about the legacy of American innovators from the 18th and 20th centuries.

Detroit Institute of Arts

Are you an art enthusiast? Then consider heading to the Detroit Institute of Arts to satisfy your cravings for art and all the beautiful things in life. This museum boasts America's largest and most significant collection of arts, and it holds more than 60,000 unique and creative works that will leave you mesmerized.

The Detroit Institute of Arts collections include works of some of the most prominent artists from Asia, Africa, and America. If you prefer interactive displays, there is also an option to join their drop-in workshops, Arts and Minds Lectures, and their Drawings in the Galleries events.

Windmill Island Gardens

Situated in Holland, the Windmill Island Gardens is the epitome of natural Dutch beauty in America. An island that is filled with blooming tulips that stretch for 36 acres, the color array from tulip to tulip is something that will indeed bless your eyes.

The island is a Dutch village that offers tours from coast to coast. You will find guides here who are costumed and in character, helping you make your trip more immersive and cultural.

The Windmill Island Gardens also holds the authentic working Dutch windmill, the only one found in the United States. It is nearly 250 years old and rests amidst a prominent tulip patch. The windmill is open for viewing exclusively in the Windmill Island Gardens and offers some spectacular waterfront views free for viewing.

Date: 2021-10-19

Article link: <https://www.tourism-review.com/must-see-attractions-in-michigan-news12228>